

HEALTH & SAFETY POLICY

Quest Marine is committed in providing a safe and healthy working environment for all employees, contractors and 3rd party personnel.

QMS have implemented HSE management processes and procedures for a safe and healthy work environment where our principal aim is to ensure that no one is injured and suitable safeguards are in place to prevent occupational illness.

We are committed to good safety standards and practices and continuously strive to improve the health and safety operation of our business.

To fulfil this commitment, Quest Marine will:

- Work together as a team.
- Encourage consultation between management and employees on all HSE aspects.
- Eliminate or control risks and hazards within the workplace.
- Everyone has an obligation to stop work that is unsafe by stopping and/ or delaying activities that present an unacceptable risk until effective measures are put in place.
- Ensure that tasks and jobs are set to standards
- Continue to promote a culture in which good effective HSE management is considered to be part of the normal work environment
- Provide adequate resources to develop implement and maintain a safe working environment.
- Comply with all legislative requirements.
- Act responsibly where laws or regulations do not exist
- Comply with OHSAS 18001:2007 Standards

Quest Marine seek co-operation from all employees in realising the safety and health objectives of the Company by taking care of their own health and safety, as well as the safety of others affected by their actions within the workplace.

We are committed to providing and maintaining a safe & healthy work environment for all employees, customers & contractors.

Responsibilities

Responsibility for ensuring that this policy is implemented lies with the Directors.

Responsibility lies with the directors in informing employees of any changes in legislation.

The effective management of HSE is both an individual and shared responsibility and it is up to all employees, volunteers and contractors occupied in activities under QMS operations to ensure its success

This policy will be reviewed periodically to ensure that it is current, relevant and effective.
